

BOSTON FOOD ACCESS COUNCIL MEMBERSHIP FORM

Anyone can become a BFAC Member. If you have an interest or stake in seeing improved food access in Boston, you are encouraged to become a BFAC Member.

The Boston Food Access Council (BFAC) brings community and stakeholder voices together to create access to affordable, just, culturally connected, healthy, and sustainable food in Boston. The work of the BFAC will include initiatives working towards this goal in areas such as improving access to healthy and affordable food, reducing the amount of food wasted in homes and restaurants, or supporting local food producers and food businesses.

As a member you will be able to bring your voice to the BFAC and help drive the agenda. To become a Voting Member (to vote for BFAC Steering Committee Members) you must attend 2 of 4 yearly meetings. If you are interested in contributing to the BFAC in a deeper way, there are also opportunities to join Working Groups or to run for the Steering Committee.
