

Christina Miller

Christina Miller is an assistant professor at Suffolk University Law School, and an adjunct professor at Northeastern University School of Law. For over 10 years, Miller served as the Chief of District Courts and Community Prosecutions at the Suffolk County District Attorney's Office, where she managed the hiring, supervision, discipline and promotion of Assistant District Attorneys practicing in district and municipal courts. Miller's experience also includes work as an Assistant District Attorney in the Suffolk, Essex and Norfolk District Attorneys' Offices. Miller earned her JD from Northeastern University School of Law.