In This Issue...

June is LGBTQ+ Pride month, when we lift up the history, struggle & accomplishments of our LGBTQ+ friends & neighbors in the older adult community. See pages 16-23, for more information.

Our cover star is Danny Harris who we featured in the Pride issue of June 2018! In the 2018 issue Danny shared his experience. "When I was younger, me being black and being gay wasn’t something I broadcasted. I didn’t hide it, but I also wasn’t standing on a soapbox to tell the world. I didn’t feel like society was ready. In retrospect, I realized I wasn’t equipped to defend myself. Now I am fierce. I have experience. I can handle anything that comes to me."

From the Mayor's Desk

Hello Boston!

Welcome to the June 2022 issue of Boston Seniority Magazine. This month we’re welcoming the warmth of summer. We’re also celebrating Pride and Juneteenth!

Pride month is an opportunity to honor the LGBTQ+ community’s experiences and victories throughout our history. Here in Boston, we’re working to create more opportunities for justice through our first-ever Office of LGBTQ+ Advancement. The Office is dedicated to developing policy, organizing programs, and providing resources to protect and expand the rights of our queer residents. Take a look inside to learn more about the Office and about Pride month. You’ll also find events and resources that you can attend to be in community with your neighbors.

June 19 is Juneteenth—a day to commemorate the news of the Emancipation Proclamation reaching enslaved people in Galveston, Texas…over two years after the Proclamation was signed. For more than 150 years, Juneteenth has been a day of reflection—on our nation’s history, on the atrocities of slavery, and to reaffirm our commitment to creating a more equitable future. I’m excited to officially celebrate Juneteenth as a City holiday this year! Keep an eye out for Juneteenth events and celebrations happening throughout Boston that weekend.

In this month’s issue, you’ll read about Operation Able—which trains older adults for today’s job market. You can also learn about Cataract Awareness Month, and how to avoid scams that often target older adults.

Whether you join us for Pride and Juneteenth celebrations, attend a neighborhood coffee hour, or take a walk in one of our beautiful green spaces, I hope you’ll make the most of the first month of summer!

Sincerely,
Michelle Wu
Mayor of Boston

Gift cards are the most common way scammers seek payment from their targets. Con-artists use Target, Walmart, iTunes, and other popular gift cards as cash channels in impostor and phone scams.

Contacting you under the guise of someone else — often a representative of the IRS or Social Security Administration or a company like Amazon or Apple — scammers claim you owe a debt or need a service. They insist you buy gift cards and read them the serial and personal identification (PIN) numbers on the back to make quick payment.

Don’t believe it. Genuine businesses and government bodies never ask for payment via gift card. Any such request is a sure sign of fraud.

The same holds if you get an urgent call from a grandchild in distress, or if someone you’ve gotten close to online suddenly seeks a loan. An ask for money via gift card means you’re dealing with a crook, not a loved one.

Fraudsters also lurk on resale or auction websites, offering goods at a deep discount. Once they get you interested in buying, they’ll ask you to pay with a gift card. As soon as they get the card number and PIN, they vanish, and so does the money on the card.

Another variation involves fraudsters posing as clergy, raising money for a worthy cause or a congregant in need. They reach out to worshipers by email, text or phone, asking them to buy gift cards and share the numbers.

Gift Card Theft

Fraudsters can also directly drain the cash you put on gift cards you’ve bought for yourself or others. These scams usually spike around the holidays.

One trick is for thieves to go to stores and surreptitiously scratch off the film strip on the back to get the PIN, which they cover back up with easy-to-obtain replacement stickers.

The crook can then spend or transfer the money on the card, or cash it in, before the buyer or gift recipient has a chance to use it. More than 1 in 5 respondents to the AARP survey said they had given or received a gift card that turned out to have no value on it.

Tips

● Don’t give gift-card information to callers claiming to be from government agencies, tech companies, utilities or other businesses. Only scammers ask you to pay fees, back taxes or bills for services with gift cards.

● Don’t respond to an unsolicited email or text message offering you a gift card. Delete it.

● Don’t give personal information to anyone in exchange for a gift card.

● Don’t buy the top gift card right off a store rack. That’s where impatient scammers usually put doctored cards.

● Don’t buy gift cards from online auction sites. They could be counterfeit or stolen.

You can also file complaints with the Federal Trade Commission at ftc.gov or call 877-382-4357. For more information on scams, visit aarp.org/scams.

June Awareness

June is National Safety Month

In 1996, the National Safety Council established June as National Safety Month, aiming to increase awareness of the leading safety and health risks and ultimately decrease the number of unintentional injuries and deaths in the United States.

Identifying risks and improving safety standards at home and in your community protects everyone. Whether we increase first aid and emergency awareness through drills or provide water safety tips for summer recreation, we’re taking steps to provide a safer neighborhood.

Here are some ways to put safety into practice:

- Report repairs as they are needed
- Put together a first aid kit
- Take a CPR class
- Teach someone to change a tire properly & safely
- Learn about proper storage & disposal of medications
- Learn how to identify fall hazards in the home
- Create a fire drill for your home/family

Visit the National Safety Council website at nsc.org for tips and resources.

City of Boston Observes Juneteenth

Juneteenth falls on June 19 each year. This year, because it falls on a Sunday, it will be observed as a holiday on Monday, June 20th throughout the country.

Juneteenth, also known as Jubilee Day or Emancipation Day was first made an official holiday last year in the U.S.

Juneteenth marks the day in 1865 that Union soldiers, led by General Gordon Granger, reached Galveston, Texas. They announced to the state that the Civil War was over and that all enslaved persons had been declared free.

Although the Emancipation Proclamation had become official over two years prior, the institution of slavery remained untouched in areas beyond Union control.

In taking control over the state, the Union effectively liberated the remaining slaves in Texas. Former slaves immediately began to celebrate with prayer, feasting, song, and dance.

Juneteenth is a day to gather with loved ones, celebrate Black lives, and reflect and recognize the struggle for liberation in America.

June is Cataract Awareness Month

Source: Prevent Blindness

The Prevent Blindness organization has declared June as Cataract Awareness Month to educate the public on symptoms, types of cataracts, cataract surgery, and more.

A cataract is a clouding of the eye’s lens, which blocks or changes the passage of light into the eye. The lens of the eye is located behind the pupil and the colored iris, and is normally transparent. Vision may become blurry or dim because the cataract stops light from properly passing through to the retina. Generally, a cataract does not cause pain, redness or tears.

Causes of cataracts include older age, intense heat or long-term exposure to UV rays from the sun, certain diseases, such as diabetes, inflammation in the eye, hereditary influences, eye injuries/diseases, and smoking.

Adults older than 60 should have a dilated eye exam annually to look for cataracts. They can be removed with painless surgery.

For free information on cataracts, please call Prevent Blindness at 800-331-2020 or visit the Prevent Blindness website at preventblindness.org/cataract.

June is Alzheimer’s & Brain Awareness Month

Worldwide, there are an estimated 47 million people living with Alzheimer’s and other dementias, and without a change, these numbers are expected to grow to 76 million by 2030. June is Alzheimer’s & Brain Awareness Month, a time to raise awareness, share resources, and support those affected and their loved ones.

This month, the Alzheimer’s Association invites folks to wear purple, and share why you wear purple to raise awareness.

In the northern hemisphere, the summer solstice marks the longest day of the year. The Alzheimer’s Association promotes the summer solstice and “The Longest Day” with the saying, “the day with the most light is the day we fight,” and encourages the public to join together to raise awareness to help combat the disease. In recognition of Pride month, we honor all Boston older adults—those within the LGBTQ+ community and allies—who have paved the path we march proudly on today. Boston is a thriving, diverse community that we all call home. That’s because, here, we support and lift up each other’s voices and identities. In Boston, love is love.

-Boston Seniority Team
The Mayor’s Office of LGBTQ+ (Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender, and Queer+) Advancement was announced by Mayor Wu in March. The office’s mission is to empower, protect, and promote the rights, dignity, and advancement of Boston’s LGBTQ+ residents. This office is responsible for developing policy, community oriented programming, and providing resources for the city’s multiracial, multigenerational, multicultural, and multilingual LGBTQ+ community.

Previously, this work was led by various LGBTQ+ Liaisons who served in the Office of Neighborhood Services to share resources and deliver city services to the LGBTQ+ community. The Wu administration is excited to scale this work up and continue to prioritize the needs of LGBTQ+ residents.

“City Hall can do much more to ensure that we are truly connecting with and serving LGBTQ+ residents across all of our neighborhoods,” Mayor Michelle Wu says. “This new office will ensure that our policies and programs are advancing and protecting the rights and dignity of Boston’s LGBTQ+ residents–and centering the lived experiences of queer, trans, BIPOC residents in the City’s work–to make Boston a place for everyone.”

Mayor Michelle Wu has been a consistent and equitable champion for LGBTQ+ rights through uplifting the work of critical LGBTQ+ organizations and ensuring that Boston is a city for everyone. In 2020, then-City Councilor Wu with City Councilor Liz Breadon proposed and led the adoption of an ordinance to ensure gender inclusivity on all City-issued forms, documents, and certificates. In 2014, then-City Councilor Wu, along with then-City Councilor Ayanna Pressley proposed and led the adoption of an ordinance to guarantee comprehensive health care for all municipal workers and their dependents regardless of gender identity or expression. This ordinance allowed for city staff, in particular Transgender and non-binary staff and their dependents, to access gender affirming healthcare, gender reassignment surgery, hormone therapy, and mental health services to be covered under the city’s healthcare plan.

“Our Office of LGBTQ+ Advancement will help build a multiracial, multilingual and multigenerational rainbow coalition,” said Mariangely Solis Cervera, Boston’s Chief of Equity and Inclusion. “As a gay Latina woman, I know our community stands on the shoulders of older adults who have marched before us–and as the Chief of Equity and Inclusion, I will make sure the voice of our senior population is part of the conversation of what policies and programs the Wu administration should champion. We will work with Age Strong and the necessary departments to address some of the issues that impact our LGBTQ+ seniors - from housing, to health issues, and isolation. We’re looking forward to what we can build together!”
Can you tell us about your background?
I joined the Board of Directors of LGBTQ Senior Housing, Inc., after a career as a civil rights attorney and advocate representing the homeless, battered women, and people who experienced discrimination and harassment because of their race, color, religion, age, sexual orientation, gender, disability, and pregnancy. I became a lawyer at the height of the AIDS crisis and had many clients in the LGBTQ community. My wife and I are long-time residents of Hyde Park and we're active in several neighborhood organizations. It’s thrilling to be working on this extraordinary project that will serve so many communities!

How did the LGBTQ Senior Housing initiative get started?
LGBTQ Senior Housing started off as a small group of people concerned about the lack of safe, welcoming, and affordable housing options for our LGBTQ older adults in Boston. We reached out to our elected representatives and LGBTQ groups across greater Boston and discovered broad support for creating this kind of housing. We incorporated as a nonprofit in 2018 and after a lengthy community process, the city awarded the location for our first housing community. The former Barton Rogers Middle School had closed in 2015 and was vacant at the time. We saw this historic building, fell in love with it and the surrounding neighborhood. The Hyde Park Main Streets district, just a few short blocks away, is home to wonderful restaurants and shopping. We surveyed the community and as soon as we saw "The Pryde," we knew that it was the right name. "The Pryde" combines the words "Pride" with "Hyde Park." It captures everything that is unique about this project: our focus on creating safe and welcoming housing for LGBTQ elders, as well as a welcoming, lively and accessible community center in the heart of Hyde Park.

How was the name “The Pryde” chosen for this housing?
We surveyed the community and as soon as we saw "The Pryde," we knew that it was the right name. "The Pryde" combines the words "Pride" with "Hyde Park." It captures everything that is unique about this project: our focus on creating safe and welcoming housing for LGBTQ elders, as well as a welcoming, lively and accessible community center in the heart of Hyde Park.

What type of support is there in this housing?
The Pryde will have a full-time staff to create and oversee programming and services. There will be a sunroom, commissary, exercise room, wellness center, art room, and library. The courtyard will have a walking track and raised-bed gardens. There will be extensive programming both for residents and the general public, including performances by the Gay Men's Chorus, speakers from The History Project, transportation to Pride Night at Fenway Park, a free lunch program, transportation to shopping and medical appointments, drag bingo, programming with affinity groups such as Elders of Color, and more. We are proud to be the first affordable senior housing community to receive Fitwell certification for healthy and engaged living.

Are there any additional comments you would like to add?
To every LGBTQ older adult reading this article, thank you for being the generation that fought for our healthcare, our civil rights, and our right to marry the person we love. We stand on your shoulders and we love you. You can follow The Pryde's progress on social media (facebook.com/lgbtqseniorhousing) and sign up for email updates on our website: lgbtqseniorhousing.org
A gay, lesbian, bisexual or transgender Bostonian born in the late 1940’s or early 1950’s came of age at a time when the American Psychiatric Association classified homosexuality as a mental disease and federal and state civil rights laws failed to recognize sexual orientation as needing protection from discriminatory practice.

The APA reversed their position in 1973 and Massachusetts law now protects against discrimination in housing, healthcare, and banking. But work remains to be done to address equity and inclusion for LGBTQ+ older adults.

Enter the LGBT Aging Project, now known as the LGBTQIA+ Project, part of Fenway Community Health Center and founded in 2004 to identify issues with a then very invisible population. Marriage equality, LGBTQ+ competency training, and access to welcoming community programs and housing options were early goals.

Reports examining the LGBTQ+ older adult community have confirmed service gaps and needs. A recent report by the Fenway Institute: Strategies for Achieving a Healthy and Thriving Older Adult Community indicates that this community suffers higher rates of isolation as they have lower parenting rates and they can more often be estranged from families. They found LGBTQ+ elders less likely to seek access to support services for fear of discrimination, often a holdover from what they experienced in their youth. This is especially true among older gay veterans and access to veteran support services.

Project Director Lisa Krinsky acknowledges that since their work began they have seen more understanding about sexual orientation but for older adults “their early issues of discrimination means that they still anticipate discrimination and retain fears that their non LGBTQ+ peers will not be welcoming or respectful.”

The Project seeks to address these issues with an array of training and education services. Central to their work is training health and human services professionals and staff at senior centers on best practices and sensitivities in working with, and making program offerings inclusive, for LGBTQ+ adults. Among those trained, according to Krinsky, were the three Boston Aging Service Access Points– Central Boston Elder Services, Ethos, and Boston Senior Home Care, as well as the Age Strong Commission.

The Aging Project also offers weekly Zoom drop-ins (and Zoom trainings) for gay adults to meet and LGBTQ+ friendly community cafes. Also important to their work is offering programming for non-LGBTQ+ older adult groups to help them examine their own attitudes about LGBTQ+ people. The hope is to build a larger cohort of allies and destigmatize stereotypes.

For volunteers like Alice Fisher, the work of the LGBTQ+ Aging Project is not just needed, it’s personal. Fisher, an 81-year-old resident of the South End, raised two daughters at a time when lesbian mothers were both uncommon and in many places, unaccepted.

Having grown up in what she called an “unconventional” family, Fischer herself had limited personal exposure to the types of intolerance experienced by many of her LGBTQ+ peers. “When I was raising my children, I often heard stories of workers losing a job after her sexuality was revealed to an employer,” says Fisher. “Lesbian mothers of my generation also lived in constant fear of losing custody of their children.”

As a volunteer with Fenway Health’s LGBT+ Aging Project, Fisher continues pushing back against stigmas she still sees around her. Fisher is one of the founders of the program OUTstandingLIFE: A Virtual Community of LGBTQ + Older Adults. She has become a huge advocate of using technology as a connector across her rainbow older adults. One 94-year-old friend, she recalls, did not even have a flip phone as of a year ago. Now he is a regular on her Zoom calls and “one of our greatest conversationalists.”

This month, which marks LGBTQ+ Pride, Fisher hopes that their online communities will be celebratory as well as connective.

10 WAYS TO LOVE YOUR BRAIN

START NOW. It’s never too late or too early to incorporate healthy habits.

- BREAK A SWEAT
  Engage in regular cardiovascular exercise that elevates heart rate and increases blood flow. Studies have found that physical activity reduces risk of cognitive decline.

- HIT THE BOOKS
  Formal education will help reduce risk of cognitive decline and dementia. Take a class at a local college, community center or online.

- BUTT OUT
  Smoking increases risk of cognitive decline. Quitting smoking can reduce risk to levels comparable to those who have not smoked.

- FOLLOW YOUR HEART
  Risk factors for cardiovascular disease and stroke – obesity, high blood pressure and diabetes – negatively impact your cognitive health.

- STUMP YOURSELF
  Challenge your mind. Build a piece of furniture. Play games of strategy, like bridge.

- BUDDY UP
  Staying socially engaged may support brain health. Find ways to be part of your local community or share activities with friends and family.

- TAKE CARE OF YOUR MENTAL HEALTH
  Some studies link depression with cognitive decline, so seek treatment if you have depression, anxiety or stress.

- FUEL UP RIGHT
  Eat a balanced diet that is higher in vegetables and fruit to help reduce the risk of cognitive decline.

- CATCH SOME ZZZ’S
  Not getting enough sleep may result in problems with memory and thinking.

- HEADS UP!
  Brain injury can raise risk of cognitive decline and dementia. Wear a seat belt and use a helmet when playing contact sports or riding a bike.

Growing evidence indicates that people can reduce their risk of cognitive decline by adopting key lifestyle habits. When possible, combine these habits to achieve maximum benefit for the brain and body.
