

Dear Boston,

Summer is a season of joy. Longer days, warmer nights, endless opportunities to get outside, connect with neighbors, and take in everything our city has to offer.

To make sure we're all able to enjoy summer to the fullest, our Community Safety Team has been collaborating across Departments and working alongside students and families, faith leaders, coaches, and advocates to create a summer safety plan tailored to meet the unique needs of each of our neighborhoods.

This year's Plan for a Safe, Healthy and Active Summer relies on what we know to be true about safety: It isn't just the absence of violence and crime, it's the presence of joy and community, opportunity and connection. That's why we're bringing cultural festivals and DJ classes, movie nights and puppet shows, and activities and events for residents of all ages to every corner of our city this summer.

Last year, thanks to our work together, we made Boston the safest major city in America. That's a testament to what's possible when we partner with those most impacted by violence to invest in the pathways that divert it—to interrupt the patterns that get in the way of repair and prosperity.

But we know there's more work to do. For Boston to truly be a home for everyone, our city must be safe for everyone. Every act of violence is one too many. Our summer safety plan is at the heart of our ongoing work to end violence and cultivate community for every one of our residents. So I want to thank all of you for sharing your experiences, helping us identify and fill gaps, and working with us to create this plan together.

With love and gratitude, and wishing you a summer filled with joy,

Michelle Wu

Michelle Wu
Mayor of Boston

The Mayor's Community Safety Team (CST) is charged annually with the preparation and distribution of a plan focused around coordinating across City departments and providing resources to prevent, intervene and recover from acts of community violence. Historically, this plan was assembled internally - without community input. Under the Wu Administration, Senior Advisor for Community Safety Isaac Yablo has prioritized the importance of building a plan for community, by community.

This strategy to build Boston's Plan for a Safe, Healthy and Active Summer 2025 encompassed a two-step process:

COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT

As we did last summer, we hosted neighborhood-based engagements across the city, 11 in total. These engagements allowed us to understand the wants and needs of each community as well as identify citywide trends that ultimately help us form our goals for each summer. Held in community centers, artist spaces, and even in different languages - these meetings are crucial not only to forming our policy as a city, but they serve as a segue between our office and the communities we serve, meeting in a common space to find common ground on issues that impact everyone.

COMMUNITY EMPOWERMENT

Building off of last summer's engagements, we pivoted this spring - exchanging 30 meetings last year for 10 meetings supplemented by our first ever Village Vibes. These Village Vibes were engagements focused on empowering the community - bringing the neighborhood together with food, music, games and summer resources long before the summer begins. Of the 9 Village Vibes we hosted, nearly 150 neighborhood-based organizations, city departments, state agencies and youth organizations joined together to give away resources to community members - free of charge.

The Community Safety Team hosted 10 neighborhood-specific meetings and one meeting focused on the city's LGBTQIA+ population. Meetings were held in BCYF Community Centers, ensuring that all community members had safe and accessible options to meet with the Community Safety team. While each neighborhood had their own specific issues they would like to see addressed, we identified these citywide trends as our goals for Summer 2025:

ENHANCED STREET SAFETY

Throughout the City, we learned that safer and slower streets are vital not only to keeping pedestrians safe - but that some intersections are hotspots for violence due to their design, leading to collisions that can escalate into further violence.

ENHANCED PUBLIC SPACE SAFETY:

Many residents emphasized that they'd like to see increased engagement and enforcement around drug use and vagrancy in public parks and community spaces. Residents noted that while not a constant problem, the open use of drugs in public can often lead to confrontations that may escalate into further violence.

POSITIVE POLICE PRESENCE

Residents understand that Police are short staffed, but almost unanimously asked for more dedicated community engagement and general visibility from police - even in areas where violence may not be present.

INCREASED AND INTENTIONAL COMMUNITY COHESION

Residents across the city made it a point to note that while the City hosts plenty of community events, there's often a disconnect between the greater community versus those who are intentionally engaged and as a result, better informed as a result. A sense of community has to be deliberately and intentionally formed - either by the city or community members - to unite neighborhoods and neighbors, building accountability and a sense of belonging for everyone.

YOUTH ENGAGEMENT AND SPACE ACTIVATION

The City of Boston regularly funds activities for young people across the city and has begun to engage youth around these events - that said, many events don't appeal to a majority of young people as a result of their location, sponsor, or content. By working directly with young people to respond to their constantly changing desires for activation, we can better engage with them across the city.

Our Plan to End Violence

Boston's Plan to End Violence was officially endorsed by Mayor Wu in 2024, and since then has been at the core of the Community Safety Team's work – using a holistic approach to address the root causes of violence throughout our City. While we prioritize safety measures for summertime in this document, the Plan to End Violence is a year-round framework for Boston to come together to end violence in our City.

Throughout our engagement for this Summer Safety Plan, we heard a common refrain: What is the City's long-term approach to addressing violence? How is the City of Boston thinking about addressing root causes of violence? Over the past 18 months, the Community Safety team, in partnership with the Boston Public Health Commission, has worked towards an answer to these questions, and we are now proud to present the City's first Plan to End Violence.

The Plan to End Violence is a long-term, sustainable, and visionary approach to violence prevention

Boston has consistently led in innovative violence prevention strategies, as evidenced by our strategy in the following pages. But our larger vision for Boston is not just one where we just reduce violence through a seasonal, band-aid approach – but where we end violence, holistically and year-round. This includes avoiding the pitfalls of systemic violence by fundamentally reimagining community engagement's impact on policy and centering the lived experiences of those most impacted by violence.

The Summer Safety Plan will remain a part of this long-term strategy, and the City will continue to ensure that whenever violence takes place, we mobilize whatever resources are needed to restore safety for our residents. But we believe that any incident of violence is too many, and we are committed to building systems that will not just maintain peace or stability, but guarantee safety, health, and joy for all our residents.

We used community input as a foundation for the Plan, which contains both ongoing work in the City and new investments and proposals that would take our violence prevention strategy to the next level. From February to December 2023, we ran a rigorous process with over 500 voices heard, including:

- Qualitative data from ~15 focus groups, across grassroots engagements, with young people, with residents in the crescent (Roxbury, Mattapan, Dorchester), East Boston, and impacted neighborhoods, and/or with providers;
- An adult survey on forms of violence and level of trust in institutions, public and private;
- A survey for young people, designed by young people and administered primarily by young leaders in Start Strong; and
- Notes, testimonies, and evidence from various other forums, working group conversations, listening sessions, and other kinds of engagements concerned with violence prevention in Boston.

Below are the core themes we identified as a result of this engagement.

The framework, which we've also used to organize this Summer Safety Plan, is as follows:

Prevention (primary) - Creating conditions for peace, or what public health professionals call “primary prevention.”

Intervention (secondary) - Addressing what leads to harm, or “secondary prevention.”

Recovery - Healing after violence, or “tertiary prevention.”

Reinvestment - Investing in workforce, data, and impacted people & communities at scale.

Whereas our City has traditionally prioritized “Intervention,” the Plan also details a vision for how the City should be involved in generating peace, facilitating healing, and supporting communities in supporting themselves. Here are some examples of the expansive ways we're thinking about violence prevention.

Prevention	Intervention	Recovery	Reinvestment
CREATING CONDITIONS FOR PEACE	ADDRESSING WHAT LEADS TO HARM	HEALING AFTER HARM	INVESTING IN WORKFORCE, DATA AND IMPACTED COMMUNITIES AT SCALE
<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>Investing in BIPOC mental health workforce + mental health accessibility, youth voice</li><li>Equity-driven and place-based investments</li><li>Strengthen approach to youth jobs, support CBOs</li><li>Invest in Early Childhood based Fatherhood initiatives</li></ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>Expanding programs serving “proven risk” youth + adults, BIPOC DV/SV survivors, restorative approaches</li><li>Investment to integrate co-occurring cycles of violence model across siloed workforce</li></ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>Refining our protocol for responding to incidents</li><li>Investment in holistic supports, including housing for families impacted by violence</li><li>Strengthening our Office of Returning Citizens</li></ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>Supporting our priority workforce groups (e.g. pay, relief staffing, clinical services, career pathways)</li><li>Enhancing evaluation infrastructure in Violence Prevention and ongoing community engagement + data dashboard.</li></ul>

Understanding common themes across city neighborhoods and the needs, concerns, and desires of constituents that were presented during the Summer Safety meetings, coupled with the themes that arose during the 2023 and 2024 engagements to build a long term violence prevention strategy and data that we have access to as a city, the Plan for a Safe, Healthy and Active Summer 2025 was created.

Boston Public Library Summer Learning

BPL has expanded the classic summer reading programming into a broader summer learning agenda, including STEM programs. We have targeted programs by age group at all locations with an emphasis on underserved youth, including English Language Learners. Visit <https://www.bpl.org/summer/> for more information.

Boston Housing Authority

The BHA seeks to engage its youth residents during the summer through work opportunities, drop-in centers, and community events. Leading up to the summer, BHA staff have been working with youth and families at our Franklin Field and Commonwealth sites to connect young people to job and camp opportunities. To supplement this, the BHA will partner with the City's SuccessLink program to provide employment opportunities across its developments for youth residents. This provides teen residents the opportunity to not only earn money, but gain experience working for the largest housing authority in New England. Some young people will work in downtown and property management offices while others will participate in structured programming. For example, members of the BHA Youth Council will work with Spoke on arts programming and host art workshops at BHA elderly sites.

BHA Youth and Teen Centers

For those not enrolled in the SuccessLink program or summer camps, the BHA will have its Franklin Field youth center open Monday through Friday for drop-in use as a safe space where youth aged 5 to 18 years old can hang out, play games, do arts and crafts, and socialize, facilitated by our teen SuccessLink workers. Additionally, due to a newly established partnership, the Boys and Girls Club of Boston will be operating the Mildred C. Hailey Youth Center beginning in Summer 2025. The center will be open Monday through Friday for teens aged 12 to 18 years old.

BHA Unity Days

Tenant Taskforces at BHA developments will host their Unity Day events throughout the summer. This annual event is an opportunity to build community at each development, through games, activities, and food. The event is for all ages, but will aim to engage teenagers to build their connections to the community and opportunities to get involved.

BPS Division of Intensive Student Support

Boston Public School's Division of Intensive Student Support primarily works with students who are court involved, DYS involved and DCF involved. The Division is responsible for coordinating services between students, families, schools and community partners to ensure that they are actively seeking to remove barriers for this population in accessing their education. Additionally, members of the Division serve as liaisons between students and families, attorneys, probation and the juvenile courts. The Division works through summer vacation to ensure that students are connected to programming and provided wrap-around support, whether it be at home, in school, in the community or in court. The Division will continue to connect with their students who are in custody and support students with their transition back into the community upon release. To get in contact with the Division of Intensive Student Support, contact Nicole Robbins, the Assistant Director of Intensive Student Support, at NRobbins@bostonpublicschools.org.

Over the course of its ten-month training program, PowerCorpsBOS teaches Corps members a variety of transferable soft skills and technical forestry skills. These skills can be used in the green industry and beyond. Summer Programming will run from July-August, 2025

Grassroots:

“GrassRoots” is an intensive 5-week program anchored by the Community Safety Team that aims to expose young adults (18-24) to the basic skills needed to enter high paying employment industries. The program prepares participants to obtain high-paying employment in these industries through: (1) career readiness and job training, (2) peer-to-peer mentorship, and (3) classroom and hands-on learning experiences. Program participants are referred to the program through community partners including law enforcement, and those make up Boston's CVI ecosystem. Life Course Health Unit, including the Promoting Potential Boston, Safe and Successful Youth Initiative (SSYI) Boston and Men's Health Initiative (via the Boston Public Health Commission)

A state-funded program that operates out of the Boston Public Health Commission, SSYI utilizes a comprehensive public health approach to outreach, engagement, case management and service delivery to increase positive outcomes for adolescents and young adults ages 17-24. Promoting Potential Boston expands this engagement to individuals 16 and under, and the Men's Health Initiative expands it to individuals 25 and over, in recognition of the need across these age groups. Through these year-round programs, all clients are referred by public safety agencies who have identified these individuals as those most at-risk of being victims or perpetrators of firearm violence.

Domestic, Sexual, and Gender-Based Violence Prevention Initiative (DSGBVPI) (via Boston Public Health Commission)

The Domestic, Sexual, and Gender-Based Violence Prevention Initiative (DSGBVPI) aims to foster a collective response to and prevent gender-based violence (GBV) across Boston. Through a trauma-informed, data driven and survivor-centered approach, we aim to create a city where everyone, particularly those made most vulnerable, has access to the resources and support they need to heal and thrive. Rather than providing direct services our focus is to align with and uplift our community partners in their work with survivors through policy advocacy, workforce wellness initiatives, trauma-informed training, and establishing data infrastructure to track DV/SV rates and service use. One example of the Initiative's unique role in complementing the direct service systems is our advocacy efforts to ensure the workforce responding to violence, including domestic and gun violence, have the tools they need to assess safety and risk effectively. Based on community input and the data, we are seeking funding to resource trauma-informed risk-assessment tools and training, which helps frontline responders by recognizing early indicators of heightened risk of homicide when there are multiple forms of violence present and take preventative measures to ensure the safety and well-being of survivors.

Additionally, this summer the DSGBV Initiative will host two key conferences: On June 6th, stakeholders from across multiple sectors will come together to provide input and share their voices on the next steps for the initiative. On July 24th, in collaboration with the City of Cambridge's Domestic and Gender-Based Violence Prevention Initiative, we will co-host a Title IX Convening, where Title IX practitioners will strategize and strengthen our collective response to sexual and gender-based violence in educational institutions.

Capacity Building and Training Initiative (via Boston Public Health Commission)

The Capacity Building and Training Initiative prevents and addresses violence by promoting trauma-informed and equitable approaches, enhancing workforce well-being, and nurturing collaboration amongst a network of organizations serving children, youth and adults in Boston and beyond. We do this through learning collaboratives with City and community programs, training with service providers across sectors, promoting community care, and meeting emerging needs via technical assistance, funding, and referrals.

Faith & Blue

National Faith & Blue Weekend, which has expanded to a week in Boston, facilitates safer and stronger communities by engaging law enforcement officers and local residents through the connections of faith-based organizations.

National Night Out

The 42nd Annual National Night Out Boston will be held in August 2025! This citywide celebration will feature 12 individual neighborhood celebrations across the City of Boston over the course of two fun-filled, impactful days. Residents of all ages will spend time with members of the Boston Police Department at family friendly events, enjoying free admission, food, games, and entertainment. The events are sponsored by the Boston Police Foundation.

Community Interaction Teams

BPD piloted Community Interaction Teams in November 2024 to address crime and the fear of crime and support our Community Policing mission by responding to community concerns, strengthening police and community relations and promoting community participation. Each Team includes a Sergeant and up to four Patrol Officers. The deployment of Community Interaction Teams is highly adaptable to the daily or weekly needs of our neighborhoods. Operating under the principle that every police interaction is a foundation for building trust, Community Interaction Teams provide a uniformed presence in designated areas to increase visibility, engage in crime reduction strategies and to collaborate with the community by listening to stakeholders as we work to improve quality of life, increase trust and reduce violence in our City. They are deployed based on feedback received directly from the public, current crime trends and statistics to areas experiencing a high volume of calls for service for violent crime, quality of life concerns and/or other issues impacting the community's perception of safety in their neighborhood.

HUB Tables

The Boston Police Department participates in Hub Tables across the City. Hub Tables are confidential and connect individuals and families meeting a threshold for acutely elevated risk (AER) with service providers equipped to offer timely, coordinated support. AER refers to a situation with a high probability of imminent harm that requires a multi-agency response to prevent crisis situations—often those that would otherwise result in a 911 call. Risk factors can include housing instability, substance use, mental health concerns, inability to meet basic needs, criminal victimization, and more. Hub Tables started in Jamaica Plain and East Boston and have been expanded to include Tables in Roxbury, Dorchester, West Roxbury, Roslindale and Hyde Park. Last year, a Citywide Hub Coordinator was added to these efforts, developing work plans for each neighborhood. In March 2025, more than 100 participants from city and state agencies, community organizations and BPD personnel participated in a training. Since they started, Boston Hub Tables have addressed 953 situations of elevated risk, with 70% resulting in successful connection to services. If you know of someone or a situation that might benefit from a Hub Table intervention, please click on your neighborhood/District and find the contact for your local District “Community Service Office”.

Operation Hoodsie Cup provides free ice cream to neighborhood youth each summer in an effort to promote police community relations. (This is thanks to a long-term partnership with HP Hood and support from the Boston Police Foundation.) Signature year round and summer programs such as: GROW Girls, Road to the Right Track, Flashlight Walks, Walk the Beat, RADKids Self Defense, MAWLE Camp for Girls, and Inclusive/Safety Field Days - are just a few examples of impactful BPD programs.

HEIGHTENED COMMUNITY CONCERNS DURING SUMMER MONTHS

Fire Safety & Fireworks

Fire prevention is just as important as fire fighting. Summer is a time for fun, but it is important to make sure you and your family are being cautious when using grills, or are around other potentially dangerous materials! On average, grills cause about 10,600 household fires per year. July is the peak month, followed by June, May, and August. As a reminder during Summer Months:

- Propane and charcoal BBQ grills should only be used outdoors
- Keep children and pets at least three feet away from the grill
- Never leave your grill unattended

Contact Lieutenant and Community Education Officer Hank Perkins (henry.perkins@boston.gov) to request a Fire Education Presentation or to request Fire Hats.

Additionally, as a reminder, Fireworks are dangerous and illegal in Massachusetts. Illegal fireworks pose significant dangers to the safety of our residents and their property. To combat issues related to illegal fireworks within the city, the Mayor's Office has partnered with the Community Engagement Cabinet and the Boston Police Department. Please refer to the City of Boston's official Firework Safety Guide and or Firework Safety Web Page for information, resources, and advocacy tools to help you push towards positive change in your community.

Dirt Bike/ATV Safety

It is illegal to drive a dirt bike, ATV, or any other off-road vehicle on public roads in the city of Boston. Community members with information relative to the illegal operation/storage of these recreational vehicles who wish to assist in these ongoing investigations anonymously can do so by calling the CrimeStoppers Tip Line at 1 (800) 494-TIPS or by texting the word 'TIP' to CRIME (27463). The Boston Police Department will stringently guard and protect the identities of all those who wish to assist any such investigations in an anonymous manner. Additionally, the Boston Police Department's Summer 2025 Reveler Action Plan will go into effect. Visit the appendix for more information on this plan.

Problem Properties

To address crime and blight in our neighborhoods, the City created the Problem Properties Task Force in 2011. The Task Force represents a consortium of City departments and agencies. As part of our work, we identify "problem properties." These properties often soak up the City's public safety and neighborhood resources. In some cases, these addresses are centers of drug use, violence, or other crimes. In other cases, they are visual blights that pose a safety hazard. In all cases, owners have allowed their properties to become chronic problems. Through our enforcement authority, the Task Force holds property owners responsible. We empower the City to levy fines against absentee landlords. We also give citizens a way to address quality of life issues. For more information on the task force, how to designate a property, or to view the "problem properties" map, visit the city's Problem Properties Webpage.

After-Hours Parties

After-hours parties have caused significant neighborhood-level safety concerns in the past. Because many of these parties are often unsanctioned and have not been permitted as approved, the City of Boston will be enforcing all complaints that come in as a result of these unsanctioned gatherings. The purpose of the BPD Party Line is to give residents a direct contact for reporting the occurrence of loud parties. Residents are encouraged to use this resource as a means of preventing late night disorderly behavior and reduce incidents of possible further criminal conduct. Please call the Party Line at 617-343-5500, contact your local police district, and submit a report to Boston 311. Please see the appendix for Massachusetts General Laws (MGLs) (16-26) regarding Unreasonable Noise and Disturbing the Peace.

Firearm Violence

While firearm violence is a significant challenge year round, the Months between June and August present significant challenges. While Summer 2023 saw the lowest shooting victim total since 2005 (58), and lowest incident total since 2009 (42), the City remains committed to reducing firearm violence as one victim is one too many. For specifics on the strategy to reduce community violence during the Summer months, see the “Summer 2025 Community Violence Reduction Strategy” section below for more information.

SUMMER ‘25 COMMUNITY GUN VIOLENCE REDUCTION STRATEGY

Gun Violence Reduction Management Team

Led by the Community Safety Team, Boston’s Gun Violence Reduction Management Team is comprised of public health providers, law enforcement, schools, nonprofit leaders, the public housing authority, and hospitals. The Team meets on a weekly basis to discuss updates related to Boston’s CVI strategy, discuss current and emerging trends in Boston surrounding violence.

Boston’s Summer strategy to reduce community violence is comprised of a management team that works to execute 4 Key Strategies:

Engage “high-risk” individuals with high-quality services and supports

Rigorous research indicates that individuals at the highest risk for violence, at any age, can benefit significantly from high quality behavioral health supports. Building on city efforts already underway, the city performed a needs analysis to confirm how many individuals are at the highest risk for violence and to assess their needs. Based on that analysis, the mayor’s office has developed a plan for expanding services to offer 100% of those at the highest risk for violence the help they need. The city will soon work to develop an integrated citywide database to track services and ensure accountability. In addition, the city will work to expand support for hospital-based intervention programs to ensure services and support are available citywide when individuals are admitted to emergency rooms for violent penetrating injuries.

Weekly and Bi-Weekly Incident Review Meetings

Proactively responding in a coordinated manner to recent incidents of violence is a hallmark of many evidence-informed approaches to reducing violence. Beginning in June, the Boston Police Department and Boston Public Health Commission will convene weekly and bi-weekly meetings respectively to bring together law enforcement, public health, and violence intervention workers to ensure coordinated responses to recent conflicts that have or may become violent.

Increase positive presence and environmental investments in the micro-places where violence concentrates

Research indicates that both increases in positive police presence in locations where violence concentrates, and investments in violence-prone locations, particularly by remaking physical settings, can both yield reductions in violent crime when done correctly. According to the Boston Regional Intelligence Center, there are approximately 150 geographic micro-locations where serious violence concentrates in the city. Focus locations or “opportunity zones” for Summer 2025 encompass Streets, Parks, and Developments across multiple neighborhoods (see the appendix for the complete list of locations).

Place-Based Partnership Meetings

Within the aforementioned areas where violence concentrates, the Mayor's office will pilot regular place-based partnership meetings between law enforcement, other city services, and community stakeholders in several impacted areas where violence concentrates. The goal of the meetings is to increase law enforcement visibility without aggressive enforcement, while at the same time investing in engaging activities in these spaces and improving the physical environment of these areas. Each partnership group will establish its own mini-plan for preventing violence in its area.
